

Arprim, centre d'essai en art imprimé

Arprim, a centre for print art, is committed to disseminating works and current practices related to printmaking. Approaching print as an open, accessible, mobile and social medium, Arprim defines itself as a space for innovation and experimentation conducive to the development of a pluralistic vision of print media. As a dissemination forum for contemporary art, Arprim acts as a privileged intermediary between artists and the public, spreading awareness of established and emerging practices in the domain of print art. Fostering exchange and participation by all, Arprim is actively engaged in the development of alternative strategies for the dissemination of art.
